Dancing Girls

Posed so perfectly, mannequins don't usually bring movement to mind. But Ralph Pucci has proved he's no dummy. He injected a bit of ironic tension into the launch of Girl, his latest series of faceless fiberglass forms, by hosting the award-winning Buglisi Dance Theater for a fund-raiser at Ralph Pucci International in New York. Figures human and inanimate shared the spotlight during a dance called The Journey.

1. One of Ralph Pucci International's single Girls with a member of Buglisi Dance Theater.
2. BDT dancers playing mannequin.
3. The Girls dressed in Frank Tell designs.
4. A trio of Girls observing a pas de deux.
5. Pucci's Sport mannequins, painted bronze for the occasion, getting into the act.

BoY's Night Out

The Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum morphed into New York's party central as Interior Design returned for the Best of Year Awards. Sponsored by Edelman Leather, the event honored project winners and product champs chosen from 1,300 entries. Serving on the jury were Interior Design Hall of Fame members Ronette King, Lee Mindel, Lauren Rottet, and Calvin Tsao as well as Brad Lynch of Brininstool + Lynch, Keith Rosen of Gensler, James Slade of Slade Architecture, and Ali Tayar of Parallel Design.

6. Suzanne Tick, who earned a merit citation for architectural products, and judge Ali Tayar.
7. Interior Design publisher and vice president Mark Strauss and editor in chief Cindy Allen showing off conference-furniture winner Fritz Hansen's T-No. 1 table.
8. Frank Lloyd Wright's rotunda.
9. Michael Maharam of Maharam, which won for contract textiles with his Layers wool blends.
10. Hall of Fame member Lee Mindel flaunting his double win for urban apartment and free-standing residence.
11. Hall of Famer Rysia Suchecka, winner for modern/refined large office.
12. Hall of Famer Clodagh and Tom Filicia, who received merit citations for kitchen/bath and eco residence, respectively.
13. Virginia Lung and Ajax Law Ling Kit of One Plus Partnership, winner for public space.
